Women's Institute For Wetaskiwin

At three o'clock on Tuesday afternoon, May 11, a meeting will be held in the City Hall, Wetaskiwin, for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Women's Institute of Alberta.

All ladies interested, whether residing in town or in the surrounding country districts, are earnestly requested to be present.

For the benefit of those who have not had an opportunity to become familiar with the real meaning of these institutes, we may say that they are being much appreciated through the province, having as their objects:

a. The consideration and simplifying of all the problems pertaining to the home, the betterment of home conditions, the increase of general comfort, health and efficiency.

b. The study of house economics, including house architecture, sanitation, hygiene, scientific nutrition, the care and training of children, and the knowledge of values (relative and absolute) of household materials.

c. Mutual helpfulness and social life, so that it affects the life of a woman on the farm, or in the town. In brief, a conscious effort is being made to bring the best of the best of home and the best standards of community life.

As the institutes are strictly non-sectarian and non-political, and their object is one which must immediately enlist the sympathies of every thinking woman, they will have a broad scope. Everyone who becomes a member may look forward not only to being assisted, but also the privilege of contributing something for the help of others.

J. R. Leake Passed Away

As was announced in last week's issue, James Robert Leake, one of the familiar figures in Wetaskiwin, died suddenly at his home in his daughter, Mrs. C. G. Austin, on Wednesday evening of last week. He was not considered seriously ill until a few hours before he passed away, and the spirit took its flight after he had fallen asleep.

Deceased was born in New York state on March 29, 1823, but he removed to Ontario with his parents at an early age. He conducted a mercantile business and performed the duties of postmaster in Morton, Leeds county, Ontario, for over forty years. Twelve years ago he came to Wetaskiwin to be near his daughter, and has been a prominent citizen ever since that time. Some years ago he had the misfortune to break his hip, but this did not greatly deter his activity, as he procured a tricycle and in this way was enabled to move about. Mrs. Leake predeceased him about two years ago. In religion he was an Anglican, and in politics he had been a Conservative. In his prime he was a conscientious member of the Masonic order.

He leaves three children, namely, the Rev. H. J. Leake, of Hagersville, Ont.; Mrs. Hartwell, of the Rev. George E. Hartwell, missionary in China, and Mrs. C. G. Austin, of Wetaskiwin.

The funeral, which took place on Monday afternoon, was conducted by Wetaskiwin Lodge, A.F. & A.M. A service was held in Emmanuel Church conducted by Rev. J. H. Shepherd. The pallbearers were Messrs. H. E. Todd, P. B. Watson, R. W. Manley, V. C. French and Rev. C. E. A. Pock and Mr. L. Wright.

Wetaskiwin Good Roads Association Meeting

The Wetaskiwin Good Roads Association reorganized for the season at the City Hall on Friday evening of last week.

Messrs. A. G. Gross and W. H. Ostell were re-elected President and secretary-treasurer respectively. The new executive consists of Messrs E. W. Wright, C. E. Compton and Jos. Richardson.

The amount collected by last season's organization by subscriptions from Wetaskiwin business men principally, totaled $37.00 and the amount expended in dragging roads leading into Wetaskiwin totaled $96.50. In addition to this the Provincial government recognized the good work being done and sent a cheque totaling two cheques totalling $60.00 to which amount was also expended in dragging the roads.

It has long been a complaint that the worst roads in the district were in the south end of the city. It is one of the main aims of the association to remedy this complaint to the advantage both of those living in the south end of the city.

Another matter which was discussed at the meeting of the association on Friday night was the matter of securing the principal routes for the benefit of those who use our highways.

Lower Insurance For Wetaskiwin

As a result of the determined efforts of J. P. Johnson & Co., and His Worship Mayor Angus, it is likely that the city of Wetaskiwin will shortly be granted a much lower insurance rate. Representations have been made for some time to the Western Canada Fire Underwriters' Association, pointing out the efficiency of the fire brigade and the up-to-date system in the city. And in consequence of this, an inspector is expected to arrive in the city next week for the purpose of going fully into the matter.

Women's Relief Corps

A Bridge Drive will be given by the Women's Relief Corps on Thursday, May 13, from 3 to 5 p.m. in Angus Hall. Ten will be served at 5 p.m. Tickets for the drive and tea will be 35c, for tea alone 15 cents. It is hoped the ladies of the city will come in good force and if not interested in Bridge will come for the tea. Anyone wishing to reserve tickets to play may get them from Mrs. Rulira. It will be necessary to do this as early as possible so that arrangements can be made for the required number of tables. The cards will begin at 3 o'clock sharp. A sale of pooled plates will be conducted in behalf of the Corps at the same afternoon at Angus Hall.

There is need for more ladies to see during the summer months and the Corps has plenty of material on hand.

The weekly sewing meeting will take place on Wednesday from 3.30 to 5 p.m. in their rooms above the Merchants Bank.

WATT - PATTERSON

At Montreal on April 27, 1915, Arthur Stewart Watt, M.A. LL.B., Wetaskiwin, Alberta, Barrister at Law, to Jenny Lenore Gordon, elder daughter of George Patterson, Esq., of Thornton, Stirlingshire and of Messrs A. & G. Patterson, Limited, Glasgow and Aberdeen, Scotland.

SILVER MEDAL CONTEST

A silver medal oratorical contest will be held in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, May 11, under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Temperance Union. The recitations will be interspersed with music rendered by the best local talent, and also there will be two choruses sung by the chorister. Come and encourage the young people in their efforts for the temperance cause. Admission, Adults, 25c; Children, 15c.

The insurance companies throughout Alberta are issuing instructions to their agents not to renew any policies on hotel property in Alberta. Evidently these companies are taking no chances. It will be remembered that after prohibition came into effect in Saskatchewan several hotels were destroyed by fire. It would appear by this that the insurance companies look upon prohibition as an assured thing.

Town Topics

Miss Ashworth spent the week-end with friends at the Capital.

B. R. Gillman of the electric light department, spent the week-end with Edmonton friends.

J. Starr has opened a second-hand store in the building recently vacated by Chas. Boyer.

DIES AND PLATES

Fate of These Used in Printing Our Money and Stamps.

ALL ARE JEALOUSLY GUARDED

But, While the Dies Are Invariably Saved, the Steel Plates Are Melted Down and Become Some Part of the Armament of Uncle Sam's Warships.

All of the notes, bonds, checks and miscellaneous issues of the government, including postage stamps, internal revenue stamps and the different denominations of currency issued to national banks, are printed from engraved plates in the bureau of engraving and printing at Washington.

The original dies are never destroyed. By a system of transferring the impression or design by passing from the die to a soft steel roll, which is later hardened. A hundred plates can be produced from one hard steel roll. All of this engraved work receives the same supervision and is accounted for just as accurately as the securities that are printed therefrom. Every morning the plates are issued to the various printing divisions of the bureau, and in the evening, when the day's work is over, they are returned to the custody of the custodian of dies, rolls and plates, where they are counted, checked and locked up with their locks.

After approximately 50,000 impressions are printed from a steel plate it becomes useless as far as its original purpose is concerned. The delicate engraved lines and geometric little work become worn, and the portrait loses its detail. When the plate becomes so affected as to render it unfit for further satisfactory printing a duplicate is ordered to be made for printing future orders from the treasury department. The old plate is then cancelled and laid aside, subsequently to be destroyed.

This destruction, or, rather, transformation, takes place just after the 31st of January each year under the direction of a committee appointed by the secretary of the treasury composed of three persons, one of whom represents the secretary and acts as chairman, another the commissioner of internal revenue and the third looking after the interests of the comptroller of the currency.

Under instructions from the department the committee makes a schedule in duplicate of all the cancelled material, the original list being retained by the committee to form a part of its report to the secretary and the duplicate placed inside the box in which the plates are to be packed. The boxes are made to hold an average of 150 pounds each. As each box is filled the cover is nailed on and the box numbered and sealed with the treasury seal. The sealed boxes are then stored in the vaults of the bureau until such time as is convenient for their conveyance to the place of destruction.

The committee recently reported to the secretary of the treasury the destruction of 4,320 pieces, weighing 41,510 pounds of treasury issue—will drawn from the vaults. To convey this vast amount of metal required the services of eight laborers and a team of draft horses attached to one of the huge money wagons of the bureau, making eight trips to the United States navy yard, where the cremation takes place in the furnace.

On arriving at its destination the committee directs the unloading. The boxes are removed from the wagon and to hand trucks and taken by elevator up to the door level of the cupola door. The boxes are here opened, the carbon duplicate schedule removed and the plates again counted and checked as they are sent into the furnace.

From the time the plates are taken from the vaults of the custodian until the last one is thrown into the fire they are under the watchful eyes of the members of the committee, who see that none goes astray, for if one or two of these plates should fall into illegitimate hands and later be put to improper use it would probably cause considerable embarrassment to the government.

In order to ascertain whether the destruction has been complete, the committee must wait until all the melted steel is drawn from the furnace and the cupola opened and cooled. The melted steel is poured into molds covering a great variety of castings that eventually find their way to the armament of our modern battleships.

It may be a yoke for an eight inch gun weighing three or four tons, or it may be some minor casting for a torpedo tube. It is not beyond the range of possibility that the officer who sights one of the immense fourteen inch rifles may have in his pocket at the time a note of some denomination printed from a steel money plate that has developed by a series of evolutions into a part of the very gun he is adjusting to wreak destruction upon any object in the path of its flying projectile.

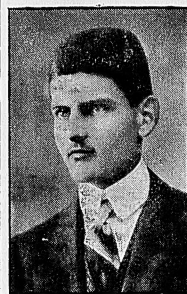

What appears to be a waste in one department of the government thus becomes a valuable asset in another.—New York Times.

As yet there does not seem to be any prospect of a baseball team in Lacombe this year, and it is likely they got started. Red Dix and Lacombe have been left out of the Central League this year, owing perhaps, to the fact that Dix's, and the other southern teams were afraid of the result at the end of the season, but that is no reason why Red Dix, Lacombe, Poncha and Wetaskiwin cannot form a league for the north and play the winners of the south for the championship of Alberta—Lacombe Globe.

Edmonton, April 2.—That 75 per cent of the seedling 1 on Edmonton to the southern boundary of the province will be completed by the end of this week, is the estimate of the Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture. He added that 10 per cent of the wheat grown this year is on summer fallow and new breaking, with the balance on fall plowed land. In other words, no wheat is being sown this year as spring plowing, so that the crop, with favorable weather, should be far larger than usual owing to these conditions.

The Montreal Times, with brownish much about financial conditions, is convinced that, commercially, Canada is headed by the war, and conditions would have been worse but for the war. "The war has let us down easily from the heights of speculation and rapid development" is the way it puts it. The same authority believes that the impetus given to agricultural development and similar factors will make a fairly healthy time after the war, in which time matters may be adjusted.

The Times has just received a new booklet issued by the Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway at Calgary, describing the resources and all aspects of Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and setting forth the terms on which the company's lands are offered to actual home-makers in the three provinces. The folder contains a list of names of useful information such as the averages of all leading grain crops in these provinces for a period of years, the average prices for the last five years, the location of four mill and oatmeal mill capacity, statement of temperatures and precipitation, etc. etc. tables, general information covering such points as customs, quarantine and transportation regulations, public works, the school system, agricultural education, railway facilities, public roads, system of taxation, voting regulations, rural telephones, water supply, system of land survey, cost of implements, building material, harness, furniture, dry goods and clothing, meat and groceries, and the capital necessary for a settler to make a proper start. The booklet is illustrated with 40 photographs of actual farm scenes in Western Canada and included in it are maps in two colors of Alberta and Saskatchewan. All persons interested in opportunities offered to homesteaders in Western Canada should make a study of this folder, which may be had free of charge by addressing the Publicity Branch, Department of Natural Resources, Calgary, Alberta.

A prominent bank official of western Canada, who is taking a keen interest in the utilization of vacant lots for the growing of garden crops says "It seems to me that the 'day light saving' scheme' would be one of the greatest factors in helping on the kitchen garden movement. It would give a cryogen from that tax to Vancouver an hour's more time to work in the garden in daylight than they would otherwise have and it would be a great thing for the health of the nation to have an extra hour of outdoor recreation, and last, but by no means least, there would be a wonderful saving of light, electricity, gas and oil. The one hour extra daylight would mean that by the time darkness came it would be nearly bedtime, going by ordinary rules."

The licensed victuallers have their men hard at work in the Lacombe district at present. As a starter they have chartered one of our prominent citizens, a man who has long identified with the public life of the town for many years, and of this gentleman is on a tour canvassing of the electors. He is not armed with the proverbial bottle, but instead is handing out Van Loo cigars in his attempt to make an impression. We would like to learn some of his arguments in favor of the liquor traffic, and as he knows what house will do to a man in business, they must be most interesting. Next week, if we secure the necessary information, we will publish some of his arguments, and also the name of the gentleman.—Globe.

Envelopes having been received in regard to postage stamps used for the prepayment of war duties on bank cheques, bills of exchange, promissory notes, express money orders, proprietary or patent medicines, perfumery, wines or champagne, as well as upon letters and postcards, postal notes and post office money orders, notice is hereby given that this sum of postage stamps is in strict accordance with the provisions of the special war revenue act, 1915, which provides that postage stamps may be used in lieu of inland revenue war stamps in fulfillment of the requirement under the act that adhesive stamps be affixed. The rubric at library at all times to postage stamps for any purpose for which inland revenue war stamps may be used, but it is especially provided in the act that inland revenue war stamps are not to be used on letters, postcards, postal notes, or post office money orders, the only stamps being allowed on these being ordinary postage stamps or postage stamps upon which the words "War Tax" have been printed.

The philosophy of the plan is simply this: That by paying your bills, the other fellow is enabled to pay his, and so on in a sort of endless chain, which finally comes round to you again, with you out of debt, and none owing you. Thus all are quits, the commercial skies are clear, and everybody feels better.

A Lesson from the Aeroplane

THE force that makes the aeroplane—a heavier-than-air machine—overcome the law of gravity is the propulsive power of the motor. Stop the engine and gravity exhibits its law.

In much the same way the propulsive power of advertising makes a business triumph over dragging-down tendencies, personal inertia, quiet times and general business depression.

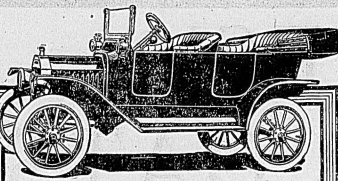

Advertising is the propeller. The merchant is the pilot. His business is the machine. His community is his sustaining medium. If you want business to soar, start the motor of advertising.

To the People in and About Wetaskiwin:

The pilots of every dominant and progressive business in Wetaskiwin are using the propelling force of advertising in some form or other. The most powerful form of advertising is newspaper publicity.

THE ART CRITIC

"Didn't I tell you about my visit to the Art Club last week? No! Well, that's queer."

"It was a rough night at Brownell's Corner, with a wild snow-storm driving down from the North-east. But in Ben Spunkin's store, where several of our neighbors were gathered, it was real comfortable, combined as it was with genial fellowship."

"Tom Spunkin, country wit, and a story teller, was in fine fettle, and we drew our chairs up closer to the stove to listen to the yarn which we knew was forthcoming."

"Yes," Tom continued, "I was at the Art Club. Think of that! Me in my old homespun, duds in such a place, Huh-huh."

"How did you come to go there, Tom?" I queried.

"It was owing to what I saw in the newspaper," was the reply. "I read that there was to be some mighty fine pictures there which had been bought somewhere down in Ontario, where they were sold by the yard. They were to be shown in aid of the Patriotic fund, so I read. See I to Martha, 'When I go in with that load of pertaters to-morrow, I'm agoin' to see them pictures. I know there'll be a lot of 'em about war, and it'll be a rare sight.'"

"An' sure enough, when I got rid of my stuff next day I hit out for the Art Club. I had some trouble in findin' the place for it was on a side street. Howsomever, I struck it at last, an' walked right into the building. At the door I was brought up by a woman who looked twenty-five years from me. I hardly had time to get my breath before another one sidled up an' held out a little book."

"What's that?" sez I.

"It's a Catalogue," sez she. 'It's only a quarter'."

"A Catalogue!" sez I, forkin' out the money, for I didn't like to appear mean. "If it tells anything about the rainin' of cattle I don't mind buyin' it. But I thought this was an Art Club." I was just pretendin' ye know."

"Sez I," sez she, an' this book tells ye about the pictures, their names, and who painted them."

"Just then another woman ran a longside, and asked me if I didn't want something to eat. Now, that was real interestin' fer I had only brought a lunch with me, when I ate on the way to town. I followed her to a little side-table, where a woman poured me out a cup of tea, an' gave me a slice of bread. A lot of young gals came round me with plates piled with biscuits, bread, an' cake. I'm no hand for cake, an' I told 'em so, but as fer bread an' biscuits, Tom Spunkin can't be beat."

"But my land! when I really saw what they'd passed right out, I could hear 'em eat the hull lot, an' I durned sight more lesides. The slices of bread were so thin ye could see right through 'em, an' the biscuits, well, they were about as big as the bowl of my pipe. I took one of each an' stowed them in the room feelin' like a fool, an' no doubt I looked like one. Everybody else was so well dressed, an' the women were just like them pictures ye see in the ladies' home journal. My duds seemed pretty shabby alongside of theirs, an' I sez to myself, 'Tom Spunkin, this is no place for yer kind of wear. I got to get a new suit, but in an Art Club ye're not in it.'"

"But as I was there, an' had paid my money I was goin' to make the best of it. So, when I thought no one was lookin' I swallowed the biscuit an' bread in two mouthfuls, an' culped down the tea. Then when I

BE AFRAID

OF A COUGH OR COLD.

Coughs and colds do not call for a minute's rest of symptoms as they are well known to everyone, but their dangers are not so well known. All the most serious affections of the throat, the lungs and the bronchial tubes are, in the beginning, but coughs and colds.

Many people when they contract a slight cold do not pay any attention to it, thinking perhaps that it will pass away in a day or two. The upshot is that before they know it, it has settled on their lungs.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the fact that on the first sign of a cough or cold it must be gotten rid of immediately, as failure to do this may cause years of suffering from serious lung trouble.

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP

will cure the cough or cold and prove a preventative from all throat and lung troubles, such as bronchitis, pneumonia and consumption.

Mrs. B. E. Bruce, Brighton, Ont., writes: "I am sending you my testimony of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, telling you what it did for my little girl. The doctor had given her up as she was, as we thought, going into a decline with the cough she had. I was told by a lady friend to try 'Dr. Wood's' and when she had taken two bottles she was on her feet again, and four bottles cured her."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is the best cure for coughs and colds. It is put in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price, 25c and 50c per bottle, manufactured by T. N. Xiburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FOR SALE BY H. L. HIGGS.

harded back the cup and agass. I was told that the charge was only fifteen cents. That somewhat staggered me. I had always prided myself that I had never been taken in by them sharks ye sometimes find in the city, but here was a bunch of women drawin' mechy out of me as easy as water out of my old pump. I hardly paid the fifteen cents before another woman cornered me. She had a paper in her hands, an' she was all smiles."

"We want to make a bid for one of these pictures," sez she, 'an' per-haps you'd like to do something. All the prominent men in town have I kin see Marthin' for the pet, why I kin go there after the cows every night, climb the fence, fall over the stumps an' get my shirt off on the sharp stones. I kin hear the wind howlin' the frow croakin', the lambs blatin', and the cows bayin', an' it ain't no wonder this is the Woodman's Home, an' ye kin see the house nestled in the trees, an' the woodman walkin' along the road with his axe on his shoulder. Can't ye see how happy he is with his work done, acomin' home to his wife, who will meet him at the door with a smile of welcome, an' the little one shoutin' with joy to see their daddy back again? Then when supper is over kin ye not see 'im settin' by the fire, smokin' his pipe, an' admirin' his pacer? Isn't that a beautiful scene, Mr. Spunkin? I kin see it all as plain as if I was there.'"

"Laddy," sez I, when I was finished, "did ye ever live in the country?"

"No," sez she.

"Why?" sez she.

"Because ye'd never see such things in that picture, sez I. 'Now, see somethin' altogether different. I see a mighty hungry man trampin' home after choppin' hard all day. When he gets into the house he finds two kids punchin' each other in one corner, an' the baby howlin' on the floor. His wife howlin' on 'im with her tongue an' tells 'im what a day she has had of it with washin', cookin', dinn' chores, an' lookin' after the kids. The man casts his supper in a hurry an' then bustles out to the barn with a lantern, an' milks the cows, feeds 'em, tends to the horses, feeds the pigs an' brins out all the carries in the wood. By the time all this is done he doesn't feel much like readin' the newspaper.'"

"The woman looked at me kinder so, an' she said, 'Ye've left all the poetry out, sez she. 'Where does that come in.'"

"Humph," sez I, 'if ye'd lived as long as I do on a farm ye wouldn't see such poetry about it, especially if ye knew Marthin'. It reminds me, I told her, of the chaps that used to work for me one summer. He wanted to learn all about farmin'."

"He said he could talk of nothin' but the murrum's bracks, whippers, the murrum's bracks, whippers, an' such like. We had it arched up at every meal, an' I tell ye he was eloquent. But after he had been with me two weeks pickin' stones, buildin' fences, with a saw settin' down his face, an' the murrum's chawin' him up, all the poetry went out of 'im, an' he was changed out for parts unknown."

"I strolled around the room fer a while, lookin' at other pictures, an' there were some real nice ones there too, of the cornin', riggin' a case, chips an' murrums, flowers, an' trees. But I couldn't find what I had come to see, so I asked 'im what he was doin' himself, with a kind of lost expression on his face. I walks up to him an' sez to 'im, 'Will ye tell me, please, where are the pictures of the war?'"

"'He haven't any,' he sez, lookin' me over from head to foot in a critical kind of way."

"'Ye've got to go to the war, sez I. 'An' to think that I came all the way from Brownville corner to this Art Club, to see somethin' real grand!'"

"'An' haven't ye?' sez he. 'What about all them pictures on the walls? Where could ye find anything near them then?'"

"'But this is for the Patriotic Fund,' sez I, an' I expected to see pictures of battles on 'em. 'And of our boys in the trenches, an' chapin' over the hills in France, mowin' in them Germans down.'"

"'Then ye'll have to go to the Nicolo, sez he, 'or to one of them stores down town where they have pictures of the war hangin' in the windows.'"

"'What's it worth?' sez I.

"'Four hundred dollars,' sez she.

"'That's good,' sez I. 'Can't beat my old woman, eh? But would any body in his senses give four hundred dollars for them stones, an' rocks, d'ye think?'"

"'That's art,' sez she.

"'Humph,' sez I, 'is that so? It's just make believe, eh?'"

"'Yes,' sez she, kinder soft like, 'it's just a paintin' ye know.'"

"'Just so,' sez I, 'that's what I thought. But would anyone give of the university, four hundred dollars for the real thing? tell me that. If he would, I'd cut up my hull farm into lots, an' sell 'em for stones, rocks, stones, an' such like.'"

"'I don't think it would work,' sez she. 'People couldn't very well go to your place to see the stones an' stamps, but they kin see 'em in this picture every time they look at it.'"

"'An' smell the paint, too,' sez I, a little red. 'Now, look here, laddy, an' I spash on the pocky like.' I've come to this place, paid twenty-five cents to get into that door, another quarter for this thing, an' I started to see a durned cat in my hand, an' fifteen cents for that cup of tea and bird grub."

"'Well,' sez she, 'isn't it worth it?'"

"'Hold on a minute,' sez I, 'I'll explain. This trip has cost me sixty-five cents, an' what have I seen. My old woman settin' on a log, an' the back corner of my nature field. The prominent men in town have I kin see Marthin' for the pet, why I kin go there after the cows every night, climb the fence, fall over the stumps an' get my shirt off on the sharp stones. Can't ye see how happy he is with his work done, acomin' home to his wife, who will meet him at the door with a smile of welcome, an' the little one shoutin' with joy to see their daddy back again? Then when supper is over kin ye not see 'im settin' by the fire, smokin' his pipe, an' admirin' his pacer? Isn't that a beautiful scene, Mr. Spunkin? I kin see it all as plain as if I was there.'"

"Laddy," sez I, when I was finished, "did ye ever live in the country?"

"No," sez she.

"Why?" sez she.

"Because ye'd never see such things in that picture, sez I. 'Now, see somethin' altogether different. I see a mighty hungry man trampin' home after choppin' hard all day. When he gets into the house he finds two kids punchin' each other in one corner, an' the baby howlin' on the floor. His wife howlin' on 'im with her tongue an' tells 'im what a day she has had of it with washin', cookin', dinn' chores, an' lookin' after the kids. The man casts his supper in a hurry an' then bustles out to the barn with a lantern, an' milks the cows, feeds 'em, tends to the horses, feeds the pigs an' brins out all the carries in the wood. By the time all this is done he doesn't feel much like readin' the newspaper.'"

"The woman looked at me kinder so, an' she said, 'Ye've left all the poetry out, sez she. 'Where does that come in.'"

The drillers at the gas well are experiencing some difficulty and have been again obliged to pull the casing.

Mrs. J. H. Robinson, who was a delegate to the Synod meeting at Red Deer last week, returned home on Friday.

The assessment notices for the city were sent out during the past week, and many of the citizens are reminded that they are large property holders.

Misses Ramsey and Bailey, who have been attending the Normal school at Camrose, returned home on Friday morning, having completed their course.

Greiner Bros. have disposed of three more Ford cars during the past few days, the purchasers being Messrs. J. H. Mataquil, W. B. Craig Wright and A. J. Ritz.

Mrs. J. P. Ellis received the sad news Wednesday evening that her father had passed away at the family home in Ottawa. He had been in delicate health for some time.

Frank Gross is nursing a sore hand these days, the result of a bite by one of his fozes. As he was tending to the animals on Monday evening, one of them bit the end of his finger.

The Cecil Hotel license was suspended last Thursday. No one apparently knows where the difficulty lies, nor the length of the suspension. The hotel is in full operation with the exception of the bar—first aid.

Seeding is well advanced in this district, and prospects were never better for a bumper crop, as the seed has been well put in, and there is sufficient moisture in the ground to stimulate germination. In many of the fields the grain is showing a head.

Arthur S. Rosenroll, one of the Wetaskiwin boys who were engaged in the big battle a few days ago, was reported seriously wounded, and was admitted to the University College Hospital, Gower street, London, W., on April 26. A cable was received Wednesday evening bearing the good news that he was recovering.

Among the property deals of the past week are two farms in the Lewisville district. H. S. Jones sold his well-improved farm to Mr. W. B. Craig Wright for $25,000, and Mr. Henderson bought the Hosford farm at $28,000 an acre. We understand it is the intention of these two gentlemen, who are now in Pennsylvania, to go extensively into the raising of pure bred stock.

Six of Wetaskiwin's white hopes for the heavyweight championship, had a determined workout on Monday evening, and the bouts were arranged so quickly that no time was given to put on the gloves and arrange the arena. As the program was pulled off unannounced, only a small crowd witnessed the affair, but many came on the scene when it was all over. Little time was lost between bouts. If Jess Willard, instead of retaining the championship "belle," he must "have a go" about the aspirations of Wetaskiwin must be reckoned with. Constant training is getting them in fit condition.

TEN THOUSAND DAMAGE
BY SEDGWICK FIRE

Sedgewick, April 30—This town was visited by a serious fire this morning, causing damage which will approximate $10,000. The fire started in the kitchen of a Chinese restaurant, and two blocks of buildings which joined close to it, were destroyed. The whole town at one time was threatened. The following were among the buildings destroyed: The restaurant; the building owned by Dr. Stadeland and Noah Strome; the building occupied by Dr. MacCroskie and J. S. Macdonald; the building occupied by the Edmonton City Dairy and Ed. Leitch. By strenuous efforts the firemen and citizens managed to save the store of Scrimgeour and Miller, also the store of Wills and Benoit.

The restaurant and buildings adjoining were owned by Dr. Robertson of Wetaskiwin. The latter was insured for $1,500. J. S. Macdonald owned the building in which he lived and had it insured for $1,800. Dr. Stadeland had $1,800 insurance on his effects and the crown restaurant $1,000 on their stock and furniture. Mr. Strome had no insurance and had lost everything. The total loss is estimated at $10,000.

Mr. O. H. Vanovich is enlarging his barn, Messrs. Gray and Wager doing the carpenter work.

Every good citizen of this town should take a special local pride in all that pertains to home. The schools, the churches, the amusements, the business pleasures, the pleasures, the celebrations, in fact everything should be looked up by our own people as just as good as can be gotten up elsewhere. The town that says "we can't" will always stay poor.
